

THEO RANDALL WINE LIST

INTRODUCTION

Our wine list celebrates Theo's dedication to seasonality and takes inspiration from the ingredients, flavours, and scents that the changes bring. With this selection we honour the evocative power of wine to spark memories and transport us to a long summer day spent by the lake, an evening relaxing by the fire, or a crisp walk in wintery woods.

Divided into winter, spring, summer and autumn, the list promises heavier wines to complement the rich, warming foods of the colder months and light, elegant flavours to celebrate spring and summer.

Throughout the list we have highlighted special grape varieties and producers for whom a little more attention is well-deserved.

For those who love the classic "by region" organization then our team will happily provide a different list upon request.

We hope you enjoy our approach.

PRIMAVERA – SPRING

Memories of Spring

My hometown is the Gargano Peninsula in Apulia - a wild, mountainous and almost untouched area of Italy. The chalky cliffs and wet stony beaches are surrounded by pine forests, olive groves, rosemary, and jasmine bushes.

Spring means a conflagration of scents and an iodine breeze blowing in from the Mediterranean Sea.

Small wineries, great wines

Tenuta San Leonardo: Trentino 1st Growth

The Tenuta has deep roots in the past of this valley that cut through the Dolomites Alps. Here, 25 hectares of organic vineyards are the birthplace of Cabernet, Carmenère, Merlot and Petit Vedot. Using these grapes as colours, the Marchesi Guerrieri Gonzaga are painting an unique and fine picture of the wines of Trentino.

Girolamo Russo: the north in the south

Giuseppe Russo, a trained pianist with a degree in Italian literature, has managed the family estate since 2004 and bottles Etna Rosso in three different versions. The vineyards extend for 15 hectares and stand in three districts: S.

Lorenzo (8 hectares, 750-780 meters altitude), Feudo (6 hectares, 650-670 m altitude) and Feudo di Mezzo (1 hectare at 700 meters altitude). For the production of his wines, Giuseppe follows the same method as when he used to study the piano: extreme attention to detail, but always keeping in mind the final result.

Solo of Fiano

Fiano grape has been cultivated in southern Italy for over two thousand years and its best-known wine is Fiano di Avellino, which is produced in the Campania region, from vines grown on the volcanic hillsides of Avellino, east of Naples. The grape has been almost forgotten but, in the last two decades, has been re-discovered and we are just starting to appreciate its ability to communicate the territorial differences and the shades of each single cru.

A natural "terroir reader" as only few other grapes can be, it expresses its best after 2-3 years, and it will recount stories of men and places only to those who have the patience to wait and the will to listen.

INVERNO – WINTER

Memories of Winter

Winter near the Peninsula means a thick fog.

To escape the ferocious cold we retreated to my grandma stove for mulled wine with apple, mandarin, and clove.

A fireplace with good friends and good wine is a perfect frosty day.
